REFLECTION

Every year Christmas comes to us with the message that the God who is invisible is visible in the person of Jesus and He lives with us, the poor, the homeless and the disadvantaged. The struggles, and the tribulations of life can make the people lose hope and even deny the presence of God in our lives; even the most steadfast believer can be exhausted. The remedy against such state of life is to find ways of renewing one's faith in Jesus. He invites all who work hard and carry heavy burdens to come to Him and He would refresh them (Mt 11:14). Jesus came into this world to be part of us where we are broken and where we are in pain. He wants to liberate us from our pains and fill us with his hope, love, peace, and joy. God comes to be with us. He has time for us. But we have not time for Him. Material progress has made today's man's life more complicated and drier. At this Christmas, let us open our hearts more fully to Jesus, that he may be born anew in us, bringing us hope and renewal and allowing his light to shine in us. Opening our hearts to Jesus deepens our faith in him, fills our lives with his life and love and brings his light to shine more brightly through us in the world.
